Detailed Action

1. Claims 1-22 are presented for examination. The current application is a continuation of application serial number 09/733,123, now U.S. Patent No. 6,721,848.

Claim Rejections – 35 USC § 112

2. Claim 21 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. § 112, second paragraph, as being indefinite for failing to particularly point out and distinctly claim the subject matter which applicant regards as the invention.

- A) Claim 21 recites: "the intermediary cache" and "the associated local caches" (Lines 1-2) has unclear antecedent basis.

Claim Rejections – 35 USC § 102

3. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. § 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(a) the invention was known or used by others in this country, or patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country, before the invention thereof by the applicant for a patent.

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

(e) the invention was described in a patent granted on an application for patent by another filed in the United States before the invention thereof by the applicant for patent, or on an international application by another who has fulfilled the requirements of paragraphs (1), (2), and (4) of section 371(c) of this title before the invention thereof by the applicant for patent.

4. Claims 5-7 and 19 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. § 102(e) as being anticipated by Cherabuddi et al., U.S. Patent 5,996,048.

- A) As to claim 5, Cherabuddi et al. discloses the invention as claimed. There is a method for reducing processing time and bus bandwidth during snoop processing of a multi-processor computer architecture (see Abstract and Col 3 Lines 23-30), the architecture comprising higher level caches (Fig 1 Ref 30 & 32 and Col 2 Line 2) and intermediary caches (Fig 1 Ref 34 and Col 2 Line 3), comprising establishing the intermediary caches as inclusive caches (Col 2 Line 57, Col 3 Lines 40-65, and Col 4 Lines 22-36), wherein an inclusive intermediary cache includes at least all memory lines of corresponding higher level caches (see Col 3 Lines 40-65 and Col 4 Lines 22-36), presenting a virtual address for a memory line on a virtually-addressed bus (this bus would be internal to the processor to send data and addresses to the virtual first level cache), initiating snoop processing of the intermediary caches (upon a first microprocessor not finding the data in its L1 or L2 cache a snoop would be performed upon the other caches, see Figs 4A-4C and Col 3 Lines 9-18), if receiving a snoop hit, initiating snoop processing on the higher level caches (see Col 4 Lines 22-40), if receiving a snoop miss, accessing main memory (this is the normal behavior when a snoop miss occurs, the data is present in the main memory, see Col 4 Lines 25-26).
- B) As to claim 6, the intermediary caches do exceed the total capacity of any higher level caches (see Col 2 Line 57).
- C) As to claim 7, any line of data evicted from the intermediary cache is also evicted from the upper level caches (see Col 4 Line 56 to Col 5 Line 15).
- D) As to claim 19, Cherabuddi et al. discloses the invention as claimed. There is a mechanism for translating from a virtual bus to a physical interconnect (see Col 2 Lines

Art Unit: 2188

2-3 and Col 5 Lines 42-50), a main memory storing memory lines (Fig 1 Ref 26), processors coupled to the main memory and capable of accessing the memory lines (see Fig 1 Ref 12, 14, and 16), and means for reducing processing time and bus bandwidth during snoop processing by the processors (see Abstract, Col 2 Lines 48-58, Col 2 Line 57, Col 3 Lines 23-30).

Allowable Claims

5. Claims 1-4 and 9-18 are allowed.
6. Claims 8 and 20-22 are objected to as being dependent upon a rejected base claim, but would be allowable if rewritten in independent form including all of the limitations of the base claim and any intervening claims.

Response to Arguments

7. Applicant's arguments with respect to claims 5-7 and 19 have been considered but are moot in view of the new ground(s) of rejection.

Conclusion

8. The prior art made of record and not relied upon is considered pertinent to applicant's disclosure.
